Mr. D. N. Major died at his home in Williamston Township last Wednesday. He had been in feeble health for several months but his death was quite sudden and is deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends and relatives. A very sad accident occurred in the Toney Creek section last Thursday afternoon, in which Mr. Wat. Fleming lost his life. Mr. Fleming was on horse back hurrying from the field out of the rain when the horse made a misstep, throwing Mr. Fleming over his head and falling on him, crushing him so badly that he only lived about twelve hours. "Old Rosen De Bow," our Townville correspondent, sends us the following: "The Rev. Author Crane, of Charlottesville, W. Va., has been assisting Rev. J. F. Singleton in a series of services at this place for the past ten days. We have had a glorious revival; twenty-five members have been added to our Church and the membership has been thoroughly revived. Mr. Crane has preached earnestly, eloquently and faithfully to us, and we feel sure that his work will result in great good to our people. He leaves for his home Thursday, and will carry with him the love and best wishes of our people."

Mrs. Adelia Todd, wife of the late R. Willis Todd, is dead. Her spirit, intrepid and untrammelled, winged its way into the presence of its Creator last Thursday morning. For more than three-score years and ten this good woman was faithful in the discharge of the duties of life, and she had been, almost from infancy, a devoted Christian and an honored member of the Methodist Church. She finished the journey of this life, with its cares and vicissitudes, and entered upon the life of eternity buoyant with hope and full of expectancy. Mrs. Todd died in the 74th year of her age and after being in feeble health for a long time. She was the eldest daughter of the late Colonel Herbert Hammond, who was a prominent citizen of this County for many years. Two sons and four daughters are left grief-stricken by this visit of the angel of death, which robs them of the surviving parent and the mother.

In their bereavement they have the deep sympathies of many friends. The remains were interred at Silver Brook Cemetery last Friday morning, after funeral services at the house conducted by Revs. W. R. Richardson and J. N. H. Summrell.
